ARON'S MISTAKE
By Petru Dolganiuc
Luck, it’s a success, a small percentage of winning something or to get somewhere. Aron, a smart man who was wasting his huge IT talent as an office worker. He was bored and wanted to find another job where he could use his talent. But he had a hobby that he loved very much, it was fishing. And that’s how a day turned his life, to good or bad? I don’t know.

He woke up, it was 6:00 am, Sunday. He went to the bathroom and then he had his favourite breakfast. After, he put the fishing rods in the car and drove to the river. When he was driving to the river his girlfriend called him and said “Aron I love you very much, why didn’t you take me with you to fishing?” and he said “I love you too, Emma, but I want to relax, to be alone in nature” and she responded “Okay, I understand, I wish you good luck at fishing”. Emma was his girlfriend, they knew each other from childhood.

When he arrived at the river, he set up his rods and waited for a fish to get caught. He took his beer, sat on the chair, relaxed, and waited. Then suddenly, the rod started to shake. He sprinted to the rod, took the handle and started to rotate it. When he picked up the fish he was very surprised because he has never seen that kind of fish before, and he was a very skilled fisherman. He knew about all the fish species in the world. The fish was very beautiful and huge, it had a kind of golden colour on the back and also long fins.

Then he called his friend and exclaimed “Hey Michael I caught a fish, a new specie of a fish” and his friend muttered “That’s very good, but I can’t speak now, because I’m in a conference”. His friend was a fish trader and had a growing fish company. He sent him a photo with the fish that he caught. His friend told him a very exciting news, he confirmed that the fish that he caught was a new specie of fish undiscovered by the people. Maybe it is not that surprising because people have explored only 5-10% of the earth’s oceans.

Then his friend organised a conference with his partners that agreed to buy that new specie of fish and multiply because that fish was female. When he came to sign the contract about selling that fish, there were news reporters. The information spread very fast and in a small amount of time he got very famous. They made the contract and signed it. Aron was very happy, he called his girlfriend and said “Hey Emma, I sold the fish and now I have so much money, I can buy a house and everything else, I can buy what I want” and Emma responded “Oh, Aron, I’m very happy for you”.
And that was their last call, why? Because when you have money you have many new friends and you forget about the old friends. He bought a big wooden house. He had a party there every day with his new friends every day. It lasted 1 month till Aron started to play in casinos. He lost all his money, he even lost his house and all his new friends because when you don’t have money, your fake friends just leave you. He was in a very big depression.

One day, unexpectedly, someone called him, it was Emma. Despite the things he did, she still loved him. They started to meet again. He understood his mistake. Finally, Aron found a new job, married Emma and here he is again, Sunday, fishing with his family and waiting for a fish.
Aron’s Mistake

Aron is a smart man with huge talent who was wasting his time working in an office. He has a hobby, fishing. Once he caught something that made him rich. But when you have lots of money instantly, you can’t handle it correctly. Did Aron handle it well?