It was a beautiful spring day. Susan went out to buy a gift for her sister Emily when John was planning to kidnap her. One-month earlier Susan’s father (William) stole from John some diamonds and money after they worked together for a long time. Susan was going to her house to prepare for Emily’s birthday. Suddenly John beat Susan on her head and he kidnapped her. He put her in a dirty, dark house in the middle of the forest. While her family was preparing for a birthday party, John phoned William to tell him that he kidnapped his daughter. You better bring my money and diamonds or I will do something bad to your daughter” said John, but William didn’t bring his diamonds back. Susan’s family were worrying about her, and they heard bad news about what happened to Susan. Her mother didn’t endure the bad news and she had a heart attack.

Susan’s mother was in a coma while William was planning to travel as soon as possible. After one month, there was no news about William. John felt bad about Susan and he started treating her nicely. John told Susan everything about what her father did.

Day after day john and Susan were becoming more closer to each other. While her mother in the hospital between life and death. After a few weeks her mother passed away. John told Susan about what happened with her mom, and William took the diamond, he travelled to another country.

John and Susan lost everything but they decided to start a new life together. After a few months, Susan passed away. William came back to England and he heard what happened to his family. He went to see John to apologise to him about what he did in the past.” Sorry is not enough for what I have done to you” said William. John didn’t accept his apology. After a few months, John died because of his sorrow for Susan. William regretted about what he did to his own family.
William's greediness and selfishness, lead a lot of problems on his daughter Susan and his family. Do you think his will overcome this problem?
